Part 2: Morphic Fields & Energy Healing

One researcher who has been doing some exciting work in applying quantum physics and consciousness to healing is Dr. Richard Bartlett.ⁱ At his seminars, many people are instantly healed of various problems such as scoliosis. Others receive healing over a measure of time. Significant personalities, such as the Dali Lama and Dr. William A. Tiller, have been seen at his seminars. Bartlett has not produced any statistics as to what percentage of people are helped by his methods and perhaps he feels that this is not the issue. His seminars are to train people to do what he does, for themselves and others.

Building on what Bartlett calls the quantum physics mythology, he has explained and taught his concepts. For example, he teaches what is called the “Two-Point” application.ⁱⁱ Since it takes two points to have a measurement between them, like in quantum physics, the practitioner finds two points on the client’s body. Just as two photons can become entangled, so eventually the two points become non-local and one, kind of like a double phase conjugate.

The practitioner has to be in a “drop down” heart consciousness to begin to observe or notice what he notices. He observes from the heart space what is different both internally and externally. Observing without judging allows for a new pathway or space to be created.ⁱⁱⁱ The main key is to do nothing and allow the morphic field to collapse on its own. When successful, the related morphic field is collapsed anew even causing the client to swoon in a wave like motion. A kind of restructuring takes place. This phenomenon, many times result in spontaneous healing. Of course, there is much more to this theory by Bartlett, but this is a good thumbnail sketch of his concept for our purposes.

Lynn McTaggart and Intention

Another researcher studying the relationship of the Zero Point Field, morphic fields, consciousness, and energy healing is Lynn McTaggart. In her latest book,^{iv} she documents all the latest experiments done by scientist the world over who are testing the power of human intention to heal, move matter, over distance and through time.^v

Interestingly enough, McTaggart at the end of her journalistic investigation, harvested ten conditions that when obeyed strengthened the abilities of the energy healers and their effectiveness.^{vi} I would like to now share those with you.

The Ten Conditions

One: Belief by the Patient in Energy Work

Generally, a patient who believed that energy work was real and beneficial received positive results more often than those patients who do not. Patients who had no faith or belief in energy healing did not respond very well. Therefore, belief and faith by the patient is important.

Two: A Personal Connection Between the Healer and the Patient.

When scientist experiment they like to mix up the variables to see if something is real. Sometimes they use double blind test and so forth etc. Under such conditions, a patient may never know that anyone is praying for them or sending healing energy to them. They may not even know that they are in an experiment or if they do, they may not ever have met the healer. It was discovered that when there was a personal connection between the patient and the healer, the results were strong and positive. Otherwise, the results were weak.

Three: Focused Intentions are Stronger than Vague Ones.

In many experiments done by scientist, healers were not informed as to what they should be working on. This experimental condition created vague intentions on the part of the healers. Since energy follows intention, only when the healer's intention was focused on a specific task was it effective in helping the patient.

Four: Patient's Responded Better Knowing When Distant Healing Was Being Done.

In many distant healing experiments, patients knew they were being prayed for, but they did not know when. The groups of patients who knew when they were being prayed for responded to the healers better than those who did not know.

Five: All Therapist Being Instructed in the Same Method.

Experiments done with groups of healers in a mixed bag fashion did not fare so well. These mixed groups consisted of Christians, Reiki, Johrei, and Chi Gong healers, to name a few. It was latter discovered that when the healers were all instructed in the same method, they became a more viable force for group healing. They were more effective when they were a coherent unity.

Six: Channelers of Energy the Most Effective.

Two types of healers emerged, those who said they only channeled the energy and those who claimed to be the energy. The energy workers who only channeled the energy but were not the energy were the most effective of the two groups.

Seven: Healing Others Healed the Healer.

It was also noted that during many of the experiments done on energy healing, many of the healers themselves received personal healings. By being a channel for the benefit of others allowed the healers to receive as well as give. How neat is that?

Eight: Meditators Made the More Effective Healers.

Healers who had a steady personal practice of meditation were the most effective healers. They were able to focus their intention with greater endurance and clarity than the healers who had no such practice.

Nine: Healers Should Power Up Before Sessions.

Healers were most effective who would meditate into the alpha state for about twenty minutes before a session. The brainwaves are about 8-13 cycles per second in the alpha state, the dream state. After reaching this state, the healers would then practice the Buddhist state of mindfulness. This is a state of clarity and heightened awareness of focus.

Ten: The Geo-Solar Effect

It was observed that whenever the magnetic field of the earth was calm, telepathy was heightened, but telekinesis and energy healing was weaker. Whenever there were solar storms and global magnetic field disturbances on earth, healers were more effective, especially over distances, but telepathy was weaker. People felt they were able to manifest more easily. Healers can contact NOAA on the Internet to get daily updates on the sun and earth's magnetic status.^{vii}

Conclusion

It is my firmest conviction, that in potential there are no limits. As the great Indian sage Sri Aurobindo once said, "The laws of physics such as gravity are only suggestions." Morphic fields exist as belief systems of which each has its own set of rules. If we accept them, then we must obey them as powerful suggestions. Until we are Masters of Wisdom, we should not jump off a building or we will fall to our demise.

The Zero Point Field is the Father/Mother foundation of all being. It is the Universal Christ Being. We come from there, and we will return there when we leave the third dimension for good. If we allow our focused attention to reach that field, it will hear us and respond. The ten conditions presented here today are only ten suggestions based upon the morphic fields of modern science. You decide for yourself what to believe and then practice it to see if it works. Be a good spiritual scientist and remember what the Master Jesus said, I can of mine own self do nothing: as I hear, I judge: and my judgment is just; because I seek not mine own will, but the will of the Father which hath sent me.^{viii}

The Father is the Zero Point Field and we are its channels. Of ourselves, we can do nothing, but we can do all things through the field. Namaste.
